Dear Kien T. Nguyen,

After mailing my response on September 23rd, I noticed that one line of text on page 5 was missing. Attached is the corrected page 5, which please insert replacing the incorrect page.

Today being my filing deadline, I was unable to determine if any forms or more complicated procedure is required to accomplish this small change. If anything more is required, please notify me. Thankyou and best regards, ectly to a shower wall--the support means essential to my invention--is not taught by Kramer.

Date Sept. 24, 2004

In sum, my invention is not obvious from Logan, Kramer, their combination, or any discovered art. And, despite its elegant simplicity, the invention is not obvious in itself. If my invention--we raise this question again--is obvious, why, considering the great potential benefits and profits, has not one person among the millions who sing in the shower ever proposed it?

Respectfully submitted,
